DEMOCRATIC COUNTY TICKET.

For Probate Judge,
WM. E. YOUNG
of Akron.

For Clerk,
ALBERT T. FAIGE
of Akron.

For Sheriff,
E. L. PILLIUS
of Hudson.

For Treasurer,
ROBT. L. ANDREW,
of Akron.

For Commissioner,
JOHN McNAMARA
of Barberton.

For Recorder,
JAMES H. BURT
of Akron.

For Coroner,
DR. C. J. HAYES
of Manchester.

For Infirmary Director, R. F. DAVIS
of Akron.

It has been a long while since the Hon. F. W. Myers broke into print with an article telling of the beauties of "the free breakfast table." Is there nothing doing out Mogadore way?

The proposition to build a city hall has been postponed indefinitely at Youngstown, chiefly because the site proposed did not suit everybody. Akron knows how to sympathize with her Mahoning neighbor.

The latest quarterly Standard Oil dividend is only $5 per share as compared with $8 for the corresponding quarter of last year. If the company can't do better than this Mr. Rockefeller will surely have to economize in his personal expenses.

There is crookedness in the Geneva, O., City Council, it is charged, and one of its members has resigned because "he did not care to have people point him out as a Councilman." When a man assumes a "holier than thou" attitude, as a rule, he will hear watching.

One of the statesmen who helped prepare the Republican campaign text book for 1902 refers to the Fifty-Seventh Congress as "a distinctively business Congress." However, Congress is not to be compared to Ohio's "wise, patriotic and economic" Legislature.

While people in general smile in ridicule of Russell Sage that, notwithstanding his 80 years and immense wealth, he continues as energetic in pursuit of the almighty dollar as he was when he had little, his advice to young men that hard work is the main secret of success is still very much to the point.

"It is only a rule of the trade that surplus products must go cheaper to the foreigner," says Congressman Babcock, in his statement justifying his change of front in regard to tariff reform. The American will be assured, however, by the same Mr. Babcock, that Uncle Sam will get it all back in the form of taxes paid by the foreigner.

From several of the larger cities come reports that the practice of adding artificial coloring to milk is increasing. One inspector reports that "certain coal tar dyes have been detected in milk, among them the sodium salt of dimethylaniline-azobenzene-sulphonic acid." The mere publication of a name like that is sufficient to warn the consumer to look out for colored milk.

The Republican campaign text book for 1902, just issued, consists of 350 pages, twenty of which are devoted to the trusts. One of the paragraphs in the trust chapter is this: "The republican administrations of President Mc-Kinley and President Roosevelt have made a good record in their efforts to execute the anti-trust law. There has been no shirking of duty because of the powerful financial influence behind the trusts. There has been no hesitation for fear the law would not prove effective. These two Republican Presidents have recognized no man or corporation as above the law."

There are other good jokes in the text book.

Wise and Otherwise

Not too dry to plow for wheat.
Three cheers for the 16th Ohio.
Of course it was the "Fighting Sixteenth."

Clint Kline will also pose as a pioneer tomorrow.
Chop suey is about as complicated as Tom and Jerry.

King Alfonso's press agent must be taking a vacation.
It's about time Tracy were taking to the lecture platform.

Glorious nights when the barking of the coon dogs is heard draw near.

Not a great deal is being heard from the Law Enforcement league, either.

One thing certain—if Judge Tibbals is feeling well he'll be at the pioneer's picnic.

Those whose business it is might send on a few statistics on the chestnut crop.

Nearly a month since a Barberton policeman was ducked in a mud puddle, shot at or chased with a club.

It was at the Pioneer picnic a year ago that Judge Tibbals made the dry bones of the G.O.P. rattle some.

"Hope springs eternal in the human breast," all of which is a mighty good thing when you stop to think of it.

How the 16th O. V. I. could hold a reunion without Col. Taneyhill giving a swimming exhibition must remain a mystery.

The City Commissioners are wondering who in the long run will be the more popular, they or the persons who held up the Falor st. bridge.

If these are the dog days it would seem proper for some one to suggest a hip-hip-hooray for the Canine family.
But then some folks don't like dogs.

It's dollars to friedcakes that if neither Judge Marvin nor ex-Sheriff S. A. Lane is at the reunion the association will adjourn to a more convenient date.

Those who have been complaining of a lack of excitement need to wait only a few weeks longer, and excitement will be a drug on the market. One of the warmest campaigns ever pulled off in Summit county is already coming in sight.

There may be something poetic about the "merry yells of the plowboy on the brown hills," but not infrequently it is disturbed by whole-souled expressions of practical profanity—especially when the plow-point strikes a stone and sends the merry-yelling plowboy skyward.

"The Municipal Situation in Ohio."
This is the subject assigned to Mayor Doyle for discussion before the sixth annual convention of the League of American Municipalities, to be held at Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 27, 28 and 29. It is not known yet whether His Honor will ask that the scope of the subject be limited to "The Municipal Situation in Akron." He would undoubtedly be better satisfied if the subject were, "Clean Streets, and How Maintained."

The project of the N. O. T. Co. to extend its line from Barberton to Wadsworth is not dead. Vice President Will Christy, of the company, stated Thursday that the extension would be made next year.—Akron Daily Democrat.

Ab, 'tis only until next year. How swift is the whiff of time! Only until next year Wadsworth is to wait to hear the rush and grind of the electric car. Sweet vision! What blissful anticipation! Only one short year until the clang of the motorman's bell will be heard and little children, stray dogs and poultry will be scurrying away from the approaching motor car, and Wadsworth's sweet girls can stand in the doorway and flirt with the haughty conductors.

Then will the express package be delivered at our doors and the Akron merchant will supply his customer on the next car. Can this all be true, or are we dreaming?—Wadsworth Banner.

It was in the office of a young attorney. Several of his friends had gathered in for a quiet smoke and the conversation turned to accidents. "There is a little baby out on North st.," re-

Mr. Sawyer's Favorite Pose While Voting "No."

Councilman W. T. Sawyer, of the Fourth ward, votes "No" oftener than any other member of Council. When he became a Councilman he determined never to help "rush matters through." For this reason he never votes to suspend rules, and hence the frequency of his "no's." marked one of the attorneys, "that had a narrower escape from death than falls to the lot of the average baby.

It happened several weeks ago on N.
Howard st., about 6 o'clock in the afternoon. A north-bound car was rolling more slowly than usual down Howard st. hill. Two little codgers were pulling a third in a cart. They attempted to cross the street when the car was about 200 feet away. When they reached the track they stopped, looked at the car, and then seizing the tongue of the little wagon, in which the baby lay, darted across the street.
They started so suddenly that the baby fell out of the wagon and lay on one of the rails with his hands and feet in the air, shouting lustily all the time.
The youngsters who were hauling the cart became frightened and darted down the street. The motorman, however, put on a double dose of sand and stopped the car within two feet of the baby. And the beauty of this story lies in its absolute truth."

THE BUCKETSHOP VAMPIRE.

(A raise of Mr. Kipling's ante.) A man was there and he went each day (Even as you and I).
To sit by a blackboard with figured array Where the rise of the market—if it went that way—Gladdened his heart as a bull market may (Even as you and I).

Oh, the dollars we waste, and the time we waste,
And the deals we think so grand Belong to the man who had no sense!
And now we know he had never had sense
And never could understand.

A man was there, and he spent his dough
(Even as you and I).
Hoping against hope the "deal" would go—
But now he knows it couldn't be so
And inwardly nurses a sickening woe (Even as you and I).

Oh, the tips we hear, and the rumors we hear
And the excellent things we planned Belong to the man who was very dense And now we know he always was dense
And never could understand.

The poor man traded and traded till he broke
(Even as you and I).
And many a garment he had to soak; Friends even held forth Charity's cloak—
One day despair caused the man to
"croak"
(Even as you and I).

It isn't the loss—the dollars are dross—That makes us rise in our might;
It is coming to know we never did know
And never could work the game right.

Wife of President Jakeman of Elders of the Mormon Church, Salt Lake City, Utah, recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound For Woman's Periodic Pains.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before I knew of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I dreaded the approach of the time for my menstrual period, as it would mean a couple of days in bed with intense pain and suffering. I was under the physicians care for over a year without any relief, when my attention was called to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by several of our Mormon women who had been cured through its use. I began its systematic use and improved gradually in health, and after the use of six bottles my health was completely restored, and for over two years I have had neither ache or pain.

You have a truly wonderful remedy for women. Very sincerely yours, Mrs.
HULDA JAKEMAN, Salt Lake City, Utah.

TABLE AND KITCHEN

Practical Suggestions About What to Eat and How to Prepare Food.

These articles, on the necessarily absorbing topic of food are carefully prepared and based on knowledge of chemistry as applied to cooking and practical information derived from actual experience.

PEACH BEIGNETS.

Pare and cut into thick slices, a doz-on large freestone peaches, lay them on a platter and sprinkle with half a cup of powdered sugar and a little sherry or orange juice and let them stand covered in a cool place for a couple of hours. Then lay them out on a clean, soft cloth, place another over them, and gently press out all the moisture. Have ready a thin frying batter, dip each slice into this and then fry a light brown in hot fat.
Drain, dust with powdered sugar and serve with fruit sauce.

PEACH SAUCE.

Dissolve a teaspoonful of cornstarch in half a cup of cold water, and stir into a pint of boiling peach syrup; stir and cook about two minutes, then stir in from half to two-thirds of a cup of sugar; add a little grated orange peel and serve.

PEACH CHARLOTTE.

Peel six peaches, cut them in half and remove the stones; chop them rather small and put into a basin; sprinkle over with vanilla sugar and a glass of sherry, rum or fruit syrup. Cut some thin narrow strips of stale sponge cake and line a charlotte mold with them, overlapping the edges.
Stand the mold in a basin of chopped ice and let it stand fifteen minutes, then put a layer of peaches in the bottom of the mold. Have some partially congealed orange jelly; whip it to a froth and pour in a layer over the peaches and let stand until set firm enough to add another layer of peaches then add more jelly and so on until the mold is filled, allowing each layer of jelly to set before adding the next layer. Cover the mold and keep on ice for half an hour. Turn the charlotte out and pour a little orange syrup over it, garnish with fresh peaches cut into halves, pour some of the syrup over this and serve.

PEACH JELLY FOR CAKES.

Pare, stone and slice rather thick and not too ripe peaches, crack a third of the stones and put the bruised kernels in a jar with the peaches; stand the jar in a pot of boiling water and heat until the fruit is well broken, stirring occasionally. Strain through a jelly bag, of double cheese cloth and to every pint of juice allow the juice of a lemon. Measure again, and to every pint of juice allow a pound of sugar.
Heat sugar very hot and add it to the juice when the latter has boiled 20 minutes. Let it come to boiling point again and then take instantly from the fire and pour into glasses.

WHEAT

Is Turning Out Better Than Was Expected.

(Special Correspondence.) Inland, August 5.—The farmers of this place have just completed their hay and wheat harvest. The quality of the hay is not very good. The first hay made was damaged by rain and the last became too ripe to be good. The wheat was good, the yield exceeding expectation of those who have threshed. A small per cent of the corn crop was ruined by too much rain, but the rest is growing nicely and will make an average yield. The oat crop is good and will be harvested this week.

John Wise has purchased the Staunfer farm and will occupy it soon.

J. W. France bought of Elias Hartong the house and lot occupied by H.
M. Miller and will take possession next spring.

Amos Spitter's and Dan Stake's new houses are nearing completion.

Mrs. H. G. Johnston and her mother, Mrs. Chauncey, of Corsica, Texas, and Q. N. Johnston, and family, of Roanoke, Va., are visiting at the Johnston homestead. H. G. Johnston will be here a little later.

Camp meeting will commence Aug.
13th and continue over two Sundays at Highland park.

George Leonard and family, of Cleveland, are visiting Mrs. Leonard's parents here.

Rev. Knowles, of Cleveland, preached Sunday morning and evening and will preach every two weeks hereafter.

chase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.
When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to
